

The KEYMACRO program is a utility that allows you to use several features of the KegaRPC library under a single interface. It's a standalone app with no graphical user interface (GUI), which means that you don't have to download the KegaRPC library to be able to use it. You only need to download the KEYMACRO program. How to use the KEYMACRO program: To use the KEYMACRO program you can just click on the "Run" button and then type the name of the program in the "Input text" field. For example, if you wanted to type in the name of the program as "KEYmacro" you would type KEYMACRO in the "Input text" field and then click on the "Run" button. Features of the KEYMACRO program: When you run the KEYMACRO program it will immediately download and install the KegaRPC library for you. You can now use the KegaRPC library, which includes the following features: 1. An SMS-style input method that allows you to type text messages using the keyboard. 2. A dynamic menu that allows you to navigate between any function of the program. 3. Several predefined commands that you can use to execute functions of the program. 4. A simple, but advanced and user friendly GUI. 5. Command line compatibility. When you click on the "run" button you will automatically see a new window with an information panel. The panel will display the name of the program, and will contain the following information: 1. The version of the program. 2. The location of the KegaRPC library. 3. The number of commands that you can use with the program. 4. The last time the program was updated. 5. The time left until the program needs to be updated again. 6. A contact email address for the maintainers of the program. 7. Some information about the KegaRPC library. 8. A link to the official website of the KegaRPC library.
