I'm not the only person who gets them, but I'm the first to admit I like getting them - especially before an important game. I like the ritual, the preparation before a match. The mental strength needed to wait and wait for the results; the satisfaction of clicking "play" and knowing your team has won. I want to play and see if we can win again, even if it is simply for a 12-minute "celebration". So, this week when I got an SMS from my coach listing six players who needed to be rested for upcoming matches I was hooked. My first reaction was to do exactly the same thing. Because the name I saw at the top of the list was Simon Foster. I'm one of the Kiwi fellas who's grown up watching the game, so that is no surprise. I know Foster's capability, even if it isn't played out all the time. And with his new team, Manly, about to host the Parramatta Eels, I knew he had to be rested. So, I made the call and told him I wanted to do the same thing. "What do you need to do?" he asked. I told him the first week of the season, the 29th of April, and he got it into his head he was going to do the same thing. I asked him how he was going to get away, and it turns out, he'd be like me. He'd be on his laptop, sitting on the sideline, and I'd be in the away end, also on my laptop. I knew I wasn't going to be able to do it on my own. I told him I
