KEYMACRO is a keyboard macro recorder that can be used to record keyboard input. This program allows you to input commonly used text into predefined snippets. Once you have recorded your desired text, you can play back this recording to copy it and paste it at a later date. The predefined snippets can also be used to copy text from a website and paste it into an application. Macro recording can be started on the Keyboard or Advanced Windows setting in the beginning. Track your keystrokes When the macro recording begins, the program will prompt you to record the first piece of text. Create commands that repeat Another feature that is quite useful is the ability to define up to 100 repeating commands. You can create recording commands by simply selecting what you want to repeat and pressing the Enter key. Paste a recorded command Once you have finished recording the commands, you can paste them into an application. For instance, you can copy a recorded command and paste it into your email signature, to let your readers know how to help you. The recorded command will be inserted in place of the original text. Playback speed If you want to make your recorded macro faster, you can specify the playback speed in the Key macro playback setting. The default speed is 1, which is what you will see in the menu. Key macro settings You can access the macro settings through the drop-down menu that appears when you select the recording command. You will be able to make adjustments such as save state. Once you exit the settings, the recorded command will be restored to its original state. Save recorded macro You can save a macro as a text file. Cross-Platform support As a cross-platform application, you can run Keymacro on Windows, Mac OS, and Linux. Record multiple snippets You can record multiple macros at the same time to save space. Optionally, compress the recording By default, the compression function is disabled. You can compress a macro if you want. Replace the current macro You can replace the macro that is currently active with another one. Record any text You can use the program to record any text that you want. You can select your language, and record it in any desired language. Password protection You can protect macros with 1d6a3396d6
